

THAT'S AMORE!

Kiwi actor Paolo Rotondo goes down on bended knee in romantic Capri

It wasn't quite the reaction actor Paolo Rotondo expected. With a diamond engagement ring concealed in his bag and mentally prepared to propose to the mother of his child, he casually suggested a side trip from Naples, where the family was staying during a two-month European trip, to the Amalfi Coast.

"He told me it was really romantic there and that I'd love it," recalls Renee Mark (36), as the couple's cute 17-month-old daughter Sofia crosses the living room on wobbly feet. "So I asked, 'Have you been there before?' and he said, 'Yes.'" Then I asked, 'Have you taken other girlfriends there?' and he replied, 'Well, yes, I have.'"

"For some reason, I got really angry. I asked him, 'What are you thinking, taking me to a place where you've taken other girls before? How romantic do you think that's going to be for me?'" Renee giggles. "So poor Paolo had to change his plans – and we went to the island of Capri instead."
